Supervision of Police Personnel (SPP) teaches strong foundational supervisory and managerial skills and instructs first-line supervisors in handling contemporary leadership challenges. A two-week course, SPP focuses on understanding human behavior and day-to-day work relationships with subordinates, superiors, and the public.

Designed for officers with little or no formal supervisory training, students complete this critical course with the understanding that knowing what action to take — and how to implement that action — can be the difference between success or failure on the street or in the office.

SPP offers the strong foundations for managerial skills that will benefit new law enforcement supervisors throughout their careers.
