Understanding Muslim Americans and Islam

Wednesday, May 8 (CH)

12-1pm

Location: Wieboldt Hall, 339 E. Chicago Ave.

Streaming to Evanston: 500 Davis Center, Suite 700

Many misconceptions, stereotypes and the Islamophobic rhetoric in mainstream media lead to fear, hate and divisive communities except for the few who struggle for understanding and harmony. Muslims worldwide are not a monolith and the same holds true for American Muslims. What are the principles of Islam that all Muslims profess and attest as dynamic in this 21st century? And what of the combined minority sects of the Shia and their relation to Sunni Islam that compromises the vast majority of the Muslim World? Karen Danielson joins us to discuss the complexity of Muslim World politic and the Islamic sciences of exegesis, hadith (transmissions from the life of Muhammad, the Prophet), jurisprudence and others that influence these sciences. Discussing these topics, and more, unveils the depth and beauty of Islam and Muslims and affirms the necessity to bridge communities and remove the walls of division.

Karen Danielson is a frequent local and national Speaker on interfaith understanding from an American Muslim point of view. After converting from Catholicism to Islam, she completed a Master of Arts in Islamic Studies.
Catholicism to Islam she completed a Master of Arts in Islamic Studies at the University of Jordan. For almost 30 years, she has directed, taught, and coordinated interfaith, intra-faith, and outreach projects for the Muslim American Society of Chicago and other organizations around Chicago.

This event is free and open to all current OLLI members. Registration is required for both campuses. Coffee and biscuits will be served at the streaming location only.

Committee Week at OLLI!

Monday-Thursday, May 13-16

EV & CH 11:45am-1:15pm
All members encouraged to attend. No registration required! All week committee members will be on hand during lunchtime to answer questions regarding what they do and how you can get involved! OLLI depends on its member volunteers to help defray cost that would otherwise have to be covered through member dues. Responsibilities can be minimal or extensive, depending on the committee and tasks at hand. Stop by to learn about the many ways you can give back to OLLI by serving on one of the committees, or lending a few hours in other volunteer activities to help OLLI become even more dynamic, creative, and welcoming.

Economic Voter Intimidation and the Crisis of Workplace Democracy in Late 19th Century U.S.

Tuesday, May 14 (EV)

12-1pm

Location: 500 Davis Center, Suite 700

Streaming to Chicago: Wieboldt Hall, 339 E. Chicago Ave.

In American political history, the Gilded Age (1876-1900) is popularly known as an era of extremely high voter turnout with a spirit of cheerful political engagement among all eligible (white and male) voters that our modern cynical age sorely lacks. Missing from this image is the reality of what voting for working class men in the rapidly industrializing United States looked and felt like. In this talk Gideon Cohn-Postar traces voter participation from factory looked and felt like. In this talk Gideon Cohn-Postar traces voter participation from factory floor to the polling place, exploring the coercion, intimidation, and bribery that typified elections for thousands of workers throughout the U.S. While it is long-forgotten now, the struggle over the right of employees to vote free of pressure from their employers guides much of the conduct of modern elections and our own experiences at the polls.

Gideon Cohn-Postar is a doctoral candidate in American history at Northwestern University. His work focuses on voter intimidation and fraud and the hazy boundaries that American society draws around the concept of political legitimacy. His research has been supported by the Gilder-Lehrman Institute of American History, the Social Science Research Council, and the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

This event is free and open to all current OLLI members. Registration is required for both campuses. Coffee and biscuits will be served at the streaming location only.

How Hamilton Happened

Wednesday, May 15 (CH)

12-1pm

Location: Wieboldt Hall, 339 E. Chicago Ave.

Streaming to Evanston: 500 Davis Center, Suite 700

Join us to hear the story of how Hamilton has affected
Broadway (and Chicago) theater as well as the nation's culture and politics. Chris Jones will tell the story of Broadway's renaissance, from the darkest days of the AIDS crisis through the unparalleled financial, artistic and political success of Lin-Manuel Miranda's Hamilton. It is the story of the embrace of risk and substance, where the theater thrived by finally embracing the bold statement and inserting itself into the national conversation. Chris was in the theaters when and where it mattered and whether you booed or applauded for the many plays and musicals he discusses, there is no denying that Jones vividly captures the theater's new clout as it attempts to change American society for the better.

This event is free and open to all current OLLI members. Registration is required for both campuses. Coffee and biscuits will be served at the streaming location only.

Book Sale & Signing
Chris Jones' new book, Rise Up! Broadway and American Society from Angels in America to Hamilton will be on sale after the lecture ($24.95) and Chris will sign purchased copies. Cash, credit card and checks accepted.

Chris Jones is the chief theater critic and Sunday culture columnist of The Chicago Tribune, where he has written thousands of reviews and columns. His work has appeared often in The New York Times, The Washington Post, and Variety. Chris was named one of the most influential theater critics in America by American Theater and is a winner of the George Jean Nathan Award for Dramatic Criticism. Chris is the author of the new book Rise Up! Broadway and American Society from Angels in America to Hamilton (Bloomsbury).

Presented by the Academic Enrichment Committee in Chicago.

Evanston Development Cooperative
Dick Co, co-founder of the Evanston Development Cooperative (EDC), joined us last week to discuss "sensible housing" and aging-in-place. The EDC has taken building technologies from the award-winning House by Northwestern project, supported by OLLI students in 2017, into the Evanston community to construct this type of housing. He specifically addressed coach houses, what can be done with them, what is allowed per zone, and typical costs.
